Please support The Destination Cure – the Race Against MS™

Memphis Triathlon Team as they run, swim and ride to raise money for Multiple Sclerosis (MS) research.

The Destination Cure Triathlon team consists of 20 athletes and is lead by David Kelleher, an individual with MS and a several time tri-athlete.

Other Triathlon participants include: Emily Ronek (Washington D.C.), Linnea Hulshof (South Dakota), Danielle Delancey (Cambridge, Mass.), Julie Kelleher (Cambridge, Mass.), Rosemary Lombard (Cambridge, Mass.), Kristen Kelleher (Portland, Ore.), David Kelleher (Portland, Ore.), Michael Buckler (Portland, Ore.), Bill Tiffany (Dallas, TX), Bill Donovan (Boston, Mass.), David Kalajian (New York, N.Y.), David Mosse (Westport, CT), Terence Sobolewski (Richfield, CT), Zack Scott (Durham, NC), and Quintin King (Keizer, Ore.)

John Guandolo, founder, Destination Cure, in recent David's searching for a pic of his first triathlon for inclusion. We think

he's simply being shy ☺

About Destination Cure

In 1998, John Guandolo founded Destination Cure in memory of his mother who suffered from Multiple Sclerosis (MS) and in the honor of others with the disease. Born on the strength and motivation of John's mother who helped individuals 'live and not simply exist,' Destination Cure makes it easy for people to volunteer for this worthy cause by participating in activities they enjoy, while knowing 100% of the contributions raised go directly to MS research. Destination Cure is making a difference in their lives and the lives of others and their determined in their efforts to help find a cure for MS.

Destination Cure is a nationally recognized 501© (3) nonprofit that Donates 100% of its proceeds to promising MS research.
